

Look more, look more
(Not playing is what makes me happy)

I've always been the type of person who enjoys working on something rather than just playing around, so in my case, I've ended up in that situation, coupled with the fact that I have absolutely no money. People often use the terms

- 1) indoor type
- 2) outdoors type

to categorize people, but...

In my case...

③Whether you like it or not → Super ① type

(Excerpt of reasons)

(Reason 1)

If you are in a situation where you can't buy anything, go out...

"Even if you get thirsty, you can't buy anything."

So you don't want to go out... and this has been going on for over five years now.

(Reason 2)

"Poison in the eyes"

There is also this perspective, so always...

(Reason 3)

"I don't have any friends or family around me."

So I rarely go out alone...

(What was previously a reason is now working in the opposite way)

In my case, it's more noticeable than before...

I don't want to stand out → I want to stand out

The opposite psychological state occurs,

"Look more, look more"

That's the only feeling I have right now...

* Related works

①Where are you going

②That's a strange thought