

Daily instrument practice audio

For now, this is a recording of the instrument I practice every day.
When I listened to it for the first time,
I noticed that the saxophone breath wasn't sustained, so from tomorrow I'll practice as hard as possible to keep my breath flowing and not cut off the sound.

The violin was in tune better than I expected.

The piano part didn't record all the way through.
It's a Casio digital piano, so if I used a grand piano,
it would have a more piano-like sound.
There were a few more songs, including
"Merry-go-round of life,"
"Shape of my heart—Sting," and
"Happy birthday,"
but they were cut off.

I played all the instruments quickly because I was recording on my phone, and I usually play slower than this.

Audio URL – Youtube

*By the way, just now, a welfare officer from the ward office made a regular visit.