

Outpatient diagnosis

A high school girl, having no money, shoplifted rice.

Yesterday, a sign was posted at a certain ramen shop:

"A hungry child is welcome to come and eat anytime."

This is undoubtedly the very essence of the basic idea of the USW society that I advocate.

Furthermore,

it's important to create a job that only you can do, considering future career changes.

This can't be achieved in just a few months, so asking someone like Mr. Moumuri after this year's Golden Week might be premature...

It would also be a way of showing gratitude to the company.

The interview period is over, but if you say something like,

"Your company is my first choice"

any reason for continuing will do,

and it will also give you confidence for the next step.

Another surge in traffic

The 2nd top page is also unavailable due to exceeding the bandwidth limit.

The same thing will happen, so we won't go as far as a 3rd, but rest assured that we are releasing what we have made into reality.

Please wait a moment.

This is what poverty is like.

After all, it's built for free~~~

The 1st top page will be available on April 1st.

It's okay.

I've copied all the HTML tags and code from the 2nd page, so it should reflect the latest version.

It should load all at once.

Currently, it's in the state of

"It all started with one Facebook page"

Incidentally, the blood test results proved that I am not an alcoholic.

I don't use alcohol to escape.

I am completely stress-free and healthy.

(Completely calm)

γ -GTP level: Ideal value

Outpatient diagnosis