

They'll give me candy...

Yesterday, on my way home on my bicycle,
two elementary school girls approached me and said,

"We'll give you some candy..."

I'd gladly accept anything for free, but...

I didn't expect them to go that far...

I'm a university student, by the way.

This is a message addressed to the Prime Minister...

(I think it arrived today, April 16th)

This was from a post titled

"University student receives candy from elementary school students"
